Art Unit: 2643

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 2, 6, 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martinez (US PAT. NO. 6,721,395 filed 12/22/097) in view of McCalmont et al (US PAT. NO. 6,771,742 filed Nov. 5, 2001, hereinafter McCalmont).

Regarding claims 1, 6, 11-13, Martinez discloses a method for communicating in a telephonic communication system for placing a call to a selected PSAP (e.g. 36) from a set of PSAPs (e.g. 36, 44, 52) by way of a call routing entity (e.g. SSP 34) of a set of call routing entities (e.g. SSP 34), and to provide selected information pertaining to the calling station (e.g. telephone 30 in Fig. 2) to the PSAP substantially as claimed, e.g. see abstract, Fig. 2. Martinez discloses forming a routing database (e.g. 74) containing a listing indexing together a calling station identity of the calling station and a public safety identity of at least one of the PSAPs, the database maintainable in communication connectivity with each call routing entity of the set of routing entities; routing the call when a calling telephone station 30 makes an emergency call, accessing from the call routing entity the routing database, to identify therefrom the selected PSAP to which further route the call, where the selected PSAP comprising the PSAP indexed together with the calling station (e.g. see TABLE I in col. 6). See col. 5 line 5 to col. 9 line 2 for example.

Art Unit: 2643

Martinez differs from the claimed invention in not disclosing the database 74 is centralized. However, as clearly shown in Fig. 2 for example database 74 is 'centralized' in that it is being shared by the set of SSPs. Further Martinez in col. 5 lines 61-66, and in col. 8 lines 53-55 further discloses that the SSP can be taken as representing the end office and a 9-1-1 tandem switch; and it is old and well known in the art that a 9-1-1 tandem switch comprises a selective routing database for routing to a selected PSAP, for example see McCalmont Fig. 1, col. 6 lines 6-18. Thus in view of the above, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to realize that database 74 as disclosed by Martinez is a centralized database for providing routing information to a set of call routing entities as claimed since the tandem switch (SSP) only uses this database for routing information, instructions.

Regarding claims 2, 14, see STP 62 in Fig. 2.

3. Claims 3-5, 7-10, 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martinez as modified by McCalmont as applied to claims 12-14 above, and further in view of the admitted prior art as set forth in the background of invention in applicant's specification page 1 line 16 to page 4 line 21.

Regarding claims 3, 15, Martinez as modified by McCalmont differs from the claimed invention in not disclosing the PSAP is associated with an emergency services number. However, as is old and well known in the art each PSAP is associated with an emergency services number as required by NENA, for example see admitted prior art, page 3 line 3 to page 4 line 6 of applicant's specification. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the centralized routing database in Martinez as modified by McCalmont to comprise the ESN of the PSAP to associate each PSAP to each calling station to comply with NENA guidelines.

Regarding claims 4, 16, since in the United States NENA is involved in planning and implementing the 9-1-1 system, it thus would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the database NENA-compliant in order to work in the US.

Regarding claims 5, 7-10, 17-19, see Martinez col. 10 lines 26-35 and TABLE III, that discloses providing positional indicia information, e.g. MSCID, CELL SITE, associated with a (mobile) calling station.

Regarding claim 20, both landline and mobile information is embodied together in database 114, see Martinez col. 10 lines 26-35.
